Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

On October 17, 2018, SolarEdge Technologies, Inc. (the “Company”) closed on its acquisition of approximately 75% of Kokam Co., Ltd. (“Kokam”), a provider of Lithium-ion cells, batteries and energy storage solutions. The acquisition was made pursuant to (1) a Share Purchase Agreement with Mr. Ji Jun Hong (the “Hong Purchase Agreement”) for the purchase of shares representing approximately 32.2% of Kokam at an aggregate cash purchase price of 37.8 billion Korean wan (approximately $33.2 million) and (2) agreements with various shareholders of Kokam (the “Ancillary Purchase Agreements” and, together with the Hong Purchase Agreement, the “SPAs”) for the purchase of shares representing approximately 42.8% of Kokam at an aggregate cash purchase price of 41.4 billion Korean wan (approximately $36.4 million). The SPAs became effective October 11, 2018, and the Company’s aggregate investment in Kokam will be approximately $88 million, including transaction related expenses.

The SPAs contained representations, warranties and covenants customary for a transaction of this nature. The Company and sellers agreed to take actions required to consummate the transactions contemplated by the SPAs. Mr. Hong agreed, among other things, subject to certain exceptions, to cause Kokam to conduct its business in the ordinary course during the period between the execution of the Hong Purchase Agreement and the closing of the transactions.

The Company and Mr. Hong agreed in the Hong Purchase Agreement to indemnify one another for certain breaches of representations and warranties stated therein. Out of the consideration payable under the Hong Purchase Agreement, an amount equal to 8.3 billion Korean wan was placed in an escrow account to satisfy potential indemnification obligations to the Company.

Item 2.01. Completion of Acquisition or Disposition of Assets
